

1

What two sources of teaching are being compared in this passage?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 1

The passage compares the Qur'an's wisdom with philosophy and its sciences.

2

What does the Qur'an do to the “veil” over created things?

Cevap 2

It tears away the covering that makes people see them as merely familiar and ordinary.

3

How is philosophy described as treating the wonders found in creation?

Cevap 3

It hides them under the label of the ordinary and passes by them carelessly.

4

What opposite effect does philosophy have on people's view of creation?

Cevap 4

It makes them overlook the marvels in normal creation by hiding them under commonness.

5

What contrast is made between normal human creation and a person with unusual bodily form?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 5

Normal human creation is presented as a great sign of divine power, while the unusual case is treated by philosophy as the main object of attention.

6

In that same example, what does philosophy wrongly make central?

Cevap 6

It makes a physical abnormality seem like the main thing worth noticing.

7

What strange sea example is used to show philosophy's misplaced attention?

Cevap 7

It notices an unusual sea creature fed in a special way and treats that as the remarkable thing.

8

What does the unusual underwater creature show about philosophy's method?

Cevap 8

It shows that philosophy pays attention to isolated exceptions while ignoring widespread blessings.

9

What lesson is the reader being encouraged to take from this comparison?

Cevap 9

The reader is being urged to recognize Allah's signs in ordinary creation and to prefer the Qur'an's way of seeing over philosophy's shallow focus.

10

What are readers told to do after seeing this comparison?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 10

They are told to reflect on it and take a lesson from it.

11

What is the main subject of the comparison in this passage?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 11

It is the difference between the Qur'an's teaching and the teaching of philosophy.

12

How does the Qur'anic way treat things people usually call ordinary?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefeninkarsilastirilmesi

Cevap 12

It presents them as filled with wonder and as proofs of Allah's power.

13

What does the passage suggest about the nature of everything in the universe?

Cevap 13

It suggests that all beings are signs of Allah's power, not plain and meaningless objects.

14

How is philosophy said to behave toward the same created things?

Cevap 14

It hides their wonder and moves past them without proper attention.

15

What is wrong with admiring only rare abnormalities, based on this passage?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 15

It causes a person to miss the much greater wisdom and mercy found in the normal pattern of creation.

16

What is the problem with being fascinated mainly by bodily abnormalities?

Cevap 16

It shifts attention away from the far greater miracle found in the usual human form.

17

What attitude is criticized when speaking about the feeding of the young?

Cevap 17

An attitude of ingratitude and neglect is criticized.

18

Why is the story of the sea creature effective in the argument?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 18

It exposes how people may become emotional over a rare case while neglecting constant signs of mercy around them.

19

What does it mean that philosophy is bankrupt in this comparison?

Cevap 19

It means philosophy is presented as lacking true richness in guiding people to understand Allah and His works.

20

What practical change in thinking is the reader being encouraged to make?

Cevap 20

The reader is being encouraged to notice Allah's signs in everyday life and not be distracted only by unusual exceptions.

21

What invitation is given at the beginning of the passage?

Cevap 21

The reader is invited to compare the outcomes and teachings of the Qur'an and philosophy.

22

What does the Qur'an reveal about beings in the universe?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefeninkarsilastirilmesi

Cevap 22

It reveals that they are astonishing works of Allah, not just routine objects.

23

What does the Qur'an do for the minds of people who reflect?

11sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p01-kuran-hikmeti-ile-felsefenin-karsilastirilmesi

Cevap 23

It directs their attention and gives them access to unlimited understanding.

24

What does philosophy do to the miracles of divine power found in normal life?

Cevap 24

It hides them beneath the appearance of the ordinary.
