

1

Why does the passage say the Qur'an is not poetry?

Cevap 1

Because it carries very high and endless truths, not made-up fancy pictures like poetry.

2

What is one benefit of the Qur'an not being tied to poetic meter?

Cevap 2

Its verses can connect freely with many other verses.

3

How does the passage describe the relationship between one verse and other verses?

Cevap 3

A verse is shown like a center that looks toward many other verses and links with them.

4

What does the passage mean by saying there are many “Qur'ans” within the Qur'an?

Cevap 4

It means the Qur'an contains many layers of meaning for people on different paths and levels.

5

What example is given to show that a short surah can hold much knowledge?

Cevap 5

Surah al-Ikhlâs is said to contain a large treasure of teachings about Allah's oneness.

6

What lesson is taught by comparing verses to stars?

Cevap 6

What may seem scattered at first can actually have a beautiful hidden order.

7

According to the passage, what does poetry often do with small or plain things?

Cevap 7

It dresses them up with big images and imagination to make them seem special.

8

How are the truths of the Qur'an different from that kind of poetry?

Cevap 8

The Qur'an's truths are already so great and bright that imagined pictures look weak beside them.

9

What do the sample verses about the sky, night and day, and the final gathering show?

Cevap 9

They show powerful and majestic truths that go far beyond ordinary human imagination.

10

What does the passage say never happens in the Qur'an's descriptions of these truths?

Cevap 10

They do not clash with one another or ruin each other's meaning.

11

What main reason is given for the Qur'an being free from poetry?

Cevap 11

Its message is made of endless noble truths, not poetic fantasy.

12

Why does the passage praise the Qur'an for not being under poetic rules?

Cevap 12

Because those rules would limit how its verses connect and carry many meanings.

13

How is each verse shown as being related to the others?

Cevap 13

Each one is described as if it can look toward many others and form ties with them.

14

What idea is taught by the phrase about many copies or forms within the Qur'an?

Cevap 14

The Qur'an gives many kinds of guidance and understanding within one book.

15

Why is Surah al-Ikhlas
mentioned?

5sinif 13-soz-eng-with-arabic-p02-kuranin-siirden-mustagniolusu

Cevap 15

To show that even a very short part of the Qur'an can hold deep teachings.

16

Why are verses compared to stars in the sky?

Cevap 16

Because they may seem separate, yet they have a hidden order and relationship.

17

What does the passage say is a sign of poetry?

Cevap 17

Poetry often makes unimportant things seem grand by using shiny, imaginative language.

18

Why can't even very strong imagination match the Qur'an's truths?

Cevap 18

Because the truths are more powerful and exalted than imagination can reach.

19

What feeling do the example verses about the heavens and the final call give?

Cevap 19

They give a sense of Allah's greatness, power, and control.

20

What do wise people recognize in this harmony?

Cevap 20

They recognize a truthful and wonderfully fitting explanation.

21

What is the first big point the passage makes about poetry and the Qur'an?

Cevap 21

The Qur'an is not poetry because its truth is far above poetic imagination.

22

What would happen if the Qur'an were restricted by poetic rhythm, according to the passage?

Cevap 22

Its verses would not be as free to connect widely with one another.

23

How does the passage help us picture one verse's role in the Qur'an?

Cevap 23

It pictures each verse like a central point with links to many others.

24

What is the purpose of mentioning different paths of followers?

Cevap 24

To show that the Qur'an offers guidance to people at different levels and needs.
