11sinif short-words-p11-fourth-word-explaining-the-comparison-and-its-rational-measure - Set 1 - CEVAPLAR

1-) In the comparison, who does the ruler stand for?

The ruler stands for Allah, the Sustainer and Creator.

2-) How is the ruler described in terms of belief?

He represents the Lord who created and sustains all people.

3-) In the passage, what does the royal estate represent?

It represents Paradise.

4-) What destination is placed before the reader as the true homeland?

The true homeland is Paradise.

5-) According to the passage, why do people move through that journey at different levels?

Their progress differs based on what they do and how strong their taqwa is.

6-) Why is the prayer compared to something that allows travel?

Because it helps carry a person toward eternal success, like travel access helps someone reach a destination.

7-) Why is it described as a serious loss to spend almost the whole day on worldly life and not give one hour to prayer?

Because worldly life is short, but the hereafter is lasting, so neglecting prayer means wasting what helps a person prepare for what matters most.

8-) What does the example of unequal chances of gain teach?

It teaches that refusing a highly beneficial and reliable investment is foolish.

9-) How does the passage describe prayer in relation to the body?

It says prayer is not a heavy burden for the body.

10-) What is the broader life lesson at the end of the passage?

A believer can use daily life in a way that gives it enduring value instead of letting it pass away empty.

11sinif short-words-p11-fourth-word-explaining-the-comparison-and-its-rational-measure - Set 2 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What is the main religious practice being urged in this passage?

The passage urges people to perform the five daily prayers.

2-) Who is represented by the servant who neglects his duty?

He represents those who are careless about prayer.

3-) What does the neglectful servant show?

He shows heedlessness and failure to give prayer its proper place.

4-) According to the passage, what lies between worldly life and the hereafter?

The grave lies between them as a stage on the way.

5-) What does the mention of the grave remind the reader of?

It reminds the reader that death is certain and that every person is moving toward meeting what comes after this life.

6-) How much time does the passage say this "ticket" requires each day?

It requires about one hour for prayer and ablution.

7-) What does the passage suggest about the amount of effort needed for prayer compared with its reward?

It suggests the effort is small, but the reward is enormous.

8-) What three parts of a person are said to gain comfort from prayer?

The spirit, the heart, and the mind.

9-) Which human faculties are said to find relief in prayer?

The soul, heart, and mind.

10-) How does this passage connect intention with ordinary life?

It teaches that intention can lift normal daily actions into spiritually meaningful deeds.

11sinif short-words-p11-fourth-word-explaining-the-comparison-and-its-rational-measure - Set 3 - CEVAPLAR

1-) In that same symbolism, what does the grave correspond to?

It corresponds to the stopping place on the journey.

2-) In the explained comparison, whom does the ruler point to?

He points to Allah, the Lord of all.

3-) Why is the grave described as a station rather than the final destination?

Because the passage teaches that life continues beyond death into resurrection and the hereafter.

4-) What does the royal property represent in spiritual terms?

It represents the eternal reward of Paradise.

5-) Why is neglecting that one hour described as a person wronging himself?

Because he deprives himself of something that would benefit him greatly in the hereafter.

6-) Why is salah compared to a ticket instead of just any good deed?

Because it is presented as a necessary means of reaching the destination safely and successfully.

7-) Besides reward in the hereafter, what immediate effect does prayer have on a person's inner state?

It gives peace and ease to the inner self.

8-) What reasoning is used in the example about investing wealth?

It uses the logic that any sensible person should choose the far more secure and lasting gain.

9-) What is one major lesson a Muslim student should take from this passage?

A small, regular act of obedience like salah brings deep inner benefit and prepares a person for eternal success.

10-) How can a person, through prayer and right intention, turn temporary life into something lasting in one sense?

By using daily life for the sake of the hereafter, a person can send the reward of that life forward and give it lasting value.

11sinif short-words-p11-fourth-word-explaining-the-comparison-and-its-rational-measure - Set 4 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What is being explained through the story of the ruler and the two servants in this passage?

The story explains the meaning and importance of the daily prayers.

2-) What do the twenty-four gold coins symbolize?

They symbolize the twenty-four hours of a day in a person's life.

3-) Why do the gold coins represent time instead of money in the explanation?

Because the point is about how a person spends each day of life, not mainly about wealth.

4-) How is the journey explained in the passage?

It is the human journey from this life to the grave, then to resurrection and the hereafter.

5-) What does the passage imply about the effect of taqwa on a person's future?

It helps a person move forward more successfully on the journey to the hereafter.

6-) About how much time each day does the passage say is needed for the five daily prayers and ablution?

About one hour.

7-) According to the passage, what mistake does a person make by using nearly the whole day only for dunya?

He treats temporary life as if it matters more than eternal life.

8-) According to the passage, what benefits does prayer bring to the inner life of a person?

It brings comfort to the soul, heart, and mind.

9-) What does the passage say about prayer as a physical task?

It presents prayer as manageable and not harsh on the body.

10-) What overall message does the final sentence of the passage give about human life?

It teaches that prayer and right intention can make a short worldly life fruitful for eternity.

11sinif short-words-p11-fourth-word-explaining-the-comparison-and-its-rational-measure - Set 5 - CEVAPLAR

1-) Who is represented by the servant who prays eagerly?

He represents believers who perform their prayers with devotion.

2-) What does the devout servant show about a person's attitude toward salah?

He shows eagerness, seriousness, and care in fulfilling prayer.

3-) What does the passage identify as the final blessed destination?

It identifies Paradise as the blessed destination.

4-) What does the passage teach about the relationship between this world and the hereafter?

It teaches that this world is a passage and preparation, while the hereafter is the lasting destination.

5-) What is the meaning of the ticket in the comparison?

It means the prescribed prayers that prepare and carry a person toward the next life.

6-) Why does the passage call prayer a "ticket"?

Because prayer is presented as something that helps a person reach the eternal destination safely and successfully.

7-) How does the passage use numbers and probability to persuade the reader?

It shows that prayer offers far greater and surer gain than the kinds of risks people often accept in worldly matters.

8-) How does the lottery example strengthen the argument?

It shows that people would normally seek the better and more certain gain, so ignoring prayer is clearly irrational.

9-) What can happen to a praying person's normal activities if his intention is right?

They can be counted as worship.

10-) How does the passage present the value of human life?

It presents life as a capital that should be invested for the hereafter rather than wasted on what quickly passes.

11sinif short-words-p11-fourth-word-explaining-the-comparison-and-its-rational-measure - Set 6 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What central idea is taught through the explanation of the comparison?

The central idea is that the daily prayers are essential, reasonable, and deeply beneficial for a Muslim's life and afterlife.

2-) What is the difference between the two servants in spiritual terms?

One is obedient and devoted in worship, while the other is careless and neglectful.

3-) Why is each day compared to a set amount of treasure?

Because every day gives a person limited but valuable time that must be used wisely.

4-) What simple time commitment does the passage say prayer requires each day?

It says the five prayers with purification take about one hour in total.

5-) On what two things does the speed of that journey depend, according to the passage?

It depends on a person's deeds and on the strength of his fear and awareness of Allah.

6-) What contrast is being made between a risky gamble and prayer?

The gamble has weak odds and uncertain gain, while prayer leads toward a far surer and greater reward.

7-) What does the passage mean when it says such a person harms himself?

It means he deprives himself of eternal benefit and acts against his own true good.

8-) How can ordinary actions become spiritually valuable?

If they are done with the right intention by a person who performs prayer, they can take on the value of worship.

9-) What practical benefit does the passage mention for the rest of a praying person's day?

The rest of his actions can also become worship if his intention is sincere.

10-) If you had to state the message of the whole passage in one sentence, what would it be?

Use your daily time for prayer and sincere obedience so your short worldly life becomes an investment for eternal success.
