11sinif short-words-p60-twenty-first-word-first-station-fifth-warning-todays-value-and-the-world-lit-by-prayer - Set 1 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What point is made about yesterday and tomorrow at the beginning of the passage?

Yesterday is gone, and there is no guarantee that tomorrow will come, so a person should value today.

2-) How is that hour of worship described in relation to the hereafter?

It is presented like savings stored for a person's real future.

3-) What happens to a person's daily world if the prayers are left undone?

That day's world becomes dark and miserable and stands as evidence against the person.

4-) How does the mirror example help explain a person's daily world?

Just as a mirror changes how something appears based on its color and clarity, a person's inner state changes how his world becomes.

5-) In what two opposite ways can a person's world bear witness?

It can support the person or stand against the person.

6-) Why are the prayers compared to a lamp and intention compared to a switch?

Because prayer brings light, and sincere intention activates that light in a person's life.

7-) What is the effect of this reflected light on the heart and daily world?

It enlightens both and causes that day's world to testify in the person's favor.

8-) How does the example of the date seed explain ordinary prayers?

A seed already contains the reality of the tree in a basic form, just as simple prayers still contain the truth of true prayer.

9-) What does the passage say about the number of levels in prayer?

It says the levels and stages of prayer are many, even more numerous than the stages from a seed to a full tree.

10-) What stays the same in all sincere prayer despite those differences?

Its essential spiritual reality remains present in all of them.

11sinif short-words-p60-twenty-first-word-first-station-fifth-warning-todays-value-and-the-world-lit-by-prayer - Set 2 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What main advice is given about time in this passage?

A person should stop depending on the past or future and use the present day well.

2-) What practical action is recommended for the present day?

Setting aside at least one hour for prayer and worship.

3-) What does the passage teach about each person's relationship to a new day?

Each new day brings a fresh personal world that the person helps shape.

4-) What does this teach about personal responsibility?

It shows that a person is responsible for the moral and spiritual condition of his own daily life.

5-) What do the different mirror conditions stand for?

They stand for the quality of a person's inner life and actions.

6-) How does prayer change a person's view of worldly confusion?

It helps him see wisdom, order, and meaning where he may have seen only disorder.

7-) What role does intention play in that comparison?

Intention is what sets the process in motion, like turning something on.

8-) What result does that light have for a person's daily world?

It makes that world shine and become a witness in the person's favor.

9-) Why is the seed-and-tree example effective here?

It shows that something small can still carry the full identity of something much greater in a condensed form.

10-) How does the passage balance equality and difference among worshippers?

It teaches that all true prayers share the same essence, while their rank and brightness vary widely.

11sinif short-words-p60-twenty-first-word-first-station-fifth-warning-todays-value-and-the-world-lit-by-prayer - Set 3 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What view of life is corrected at the start of the passage?

1-) Summarize the first lesson of the passage in one sentence.

Since the past is over and the future is uncertain, a person should use the present for worship that benefits the hereafter.

2-) What does this wording suggest about the minimum level of effort expected?

It suggests that even a modest but sincere daily effort matters and should not be ignored.

3-) What does the passage say every day becomes for each individual?

It becomes a separate personal world.

4-) What consequence is mentioned for skipping prayer?

The day leaves in a dark state and becomes testimony against the person.

5-) How does the example of a palace in a mirror help the reader understand the passage?

It shows that the object may stay the same, but the reflection changes depending on the condition of the mirror.

6-) What direct result comes from praying the five daily prayers?

A person's world becomes illuminated.

7-) Once illuminated, how are worldly events seen differently?

They are seen as meaningful and wisely arranged rather than hopelessly confused.

8-) How does the passage connect this light to Allah?

It says the heart receives a reflection of divine light that brightens one's daily world.

9-) What does the seed image show about small beginnings in worship?

A small beginning can still contain the true nature of something much greater.

10-) What does the passage say about awareness of this truth?

A person may not fully understand it consciously, but the truth is still there.
