Set 1 - CEVAPLAR

1-) In the story, what did the king give to each of the two men?

He gave each one an estate with the things needed to run it, like equipment, animals, and weapons.

2-) What made the estates hard to keep safe?

The time was full of turmoil, so nothing stayed secure.

3-) What does the king's request tell us about ownership?

It shows the men were caretakers, not the true owners.

4-) What future promise made the offer especially hopeful?

The king promised to return it later in a better form.

5-) How would selling the property change a man's identity?

He would no longer be lowly and ordinary, but honored in the king's service.

6-) Why would refusing the offer be both foolish and harmful?

Because they would lose the property, miss the reward, and face punishment too.

7-) Besides losing their property, what other problem would they face if they refused?

They would carry the stress of taking care of it and also be punished for breaking trust.

8-) What two bad results came with trying to hold the trust wrongly?

There would be worry from managing it and punishment for unfaithfulness.

9-) What attitude made the second man speak as if the estate were truly his?

His arrogance made him speak that way.

10-) How is the first man's ending described by others?

People envied his excellent condition.

Set 2 - CEVAPLAR

1-) Who brought the king's message to the two men?

A noble lieutenant brought it.

2-) Why did the king ask the two men to hand over what they were holding?

He wanted to protect it from being wasted or ruined.

3-) What was the main action the king asked the men to take?

He asked them to transfer the trust back to him.

4-) What improvement did the king promise after the hard times ended?

He promised the property would be returned in better condition.

5-) What does the king's promise to handle expenses show about the men's situation?

It shows they were not strong enough or rich enough to manage it alone.

6-) What does the first man understand that the second man does not?

He understands that accepting the king's offer leads to safety and reward.

7-) What in his words shows that the first man accepted the offer with a good heart?

He said he was glad and grateful to accept it.

8-) How would that new position be better than being an ordinary captive or irregular fighter?

He would have an honored and freer rank under a great ruler.

9-) What was the wise man's answer to the decree?

He accepted it completely and with thanks.

Set 3 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What problem in the world made the king's message urgent?

The world around them was full of war and instability.

2-) Why was it not smart to cling tightly to the estate in that setting?

Because the time was unstable, and the estate could easily be destroyed or changed.

3-) How did the king say he would treat the trust they handed over?

He said he would count it as their property and pay them well for it.

4-) What did the king say he would do with the property after the war?

He would return it in a better state.

5-) Why was the king's offer suited to the men's weakness?

Because he took responsibility for the costs and equipment they could not handle.

6-) What would happen to the special tools and valuable materials if left as they were?

They would become useless and lose their worth.

7-) How did love of enjoyment hurt the second man?

It made him reject what was truly better for him.

8-) How did the second man's attitude affect his judgment?

It made him ignore the dangers around him and refuse a better choice.

9-) What kind of person was the second man shown to be?

He was proud, selfish, and careless.

10-) What happened to the first man in the end?

He rose to a high rank, gained the king's favor, and lived happily.

Set 4 - CEVAPLAR

1-) At the beginning of the passage, what had the king placed under the care of the two men?

He had placed estates and their supplies under their care.

2-) What does the king's promise to return the estate in better shape show?

It shows generosity and care beyond simply taking it back.

3-) What did the king promise about the payment for the property?

He promised a high payment for it.

4-) Why did the king say the men should let him cover the costs?

Because they were poor and unable to handle such big expenses by themselves.

5-) What did the king promise concerning the workshop items?

He promised they would be used in his service and bring much greater benefit.

6-) If they refused, what would happen to the king's high offer?

They would miss out on it completely.

7-) What better role was offered if a man agreed to the king's terms?

He would become an honored soldier of the king.

8-) Where did the first man end up living?

He lived happily in the king's palace.

9-) What was the final result of the second man's proud choice?

He ended up miserable, punished, and stripped of what he had.

10-) Why is the ending of the story a strong contrast?

Because one man's acceptance led to honor, while the other man's refusal led to loss and suffering.
