Cevap 4 It was described as having freedom from restraint on the surface, but leading to harm and unhappiness.	Cevap 3 It was described as having order and discipline, with some difficulty, but leading to safety and well-being.	Cevap 2 They had to choose between a path with rules, safety, and happiness and a path with fewer limits but danger and misery.	Cevap 1 It says the comparison helps explain the world, the human soul, the importance of religion, why life becomes like a prison without true religion, and how calling on Allah and believing in His oneness save a person from darkness.
Cevap 8 The brother on the left is followed so the reader can see that what looks easy at first can actually become difficult and heavy.	Cevap 7 He chose it because he was morally careless and wanted a path without restrictions.	Cevap 6 He chose it because he had good character and accepted order and rules.	Cevap 5 He says that he puts his trust in Allah.
Cevap 12 A serious man at the split in the road gives them guidance.	Cevap 11 Its purpose is to help the reader understand big truths about human life, religion, and the condition of the soul.	Cevap 10 It shows religion as a guide that brings order, protection, and happiness instead of confusion and misery.	Cevap 9 It suggests that freedom without guidance can harm a person, while living by right guidance brings safety and peace.

13 What warning is given about the left-hand road?	14 What promise is given about the right-hand road?	15 What does the response of the good brother show about his faith?	16 What does the response of the other brother show about his attitude?

Cevap 16 It shows that he prefers ease and unrestricted living over discipline and wisdom.	Cevap 15 It shows that he trusts Allah and is willing to follow what is right.	Cevap 14 The promise is that even though it requires obedience and effort, it brings safety and happiness.	Cevap 13 The warning is that its lack of limits hides danger and misery.
Cevap 20 True religion guides a person to the better path, even when that path requires obedience and patience.	Cevap 19 Because the passage teaches that the right path includes responsibility and self-control.	Cevap 18 He is described as immoral, lazy, and drawn to comfort without responsibility.	Cevap 17 It shows that the road that seems harder is actually better, while the road that seems easier is actually worse.
Cevap 24 They asked which road was the better one.	Cevap 23 A comparison makes the lesson easier to picture and understand through a story.	Cevap 22 Calling on Allah and declaring that no god deserves worship except Allah.	Cevap 21 The world becomes like a prison, and human beings become deeply unhappy.
