Cevap 4 It means the prayers guide a person toward understanding the different forms of worship found across creation.	Cevap 3 It means the prayers gather many kinds of worship into one organized whole, the way an index points to many subjects in a compact form.	Cevap 2 They are presented as a broad yet concise summary of every form of worship.	Cevap 1 Human beings are described as a small-scale reflection of the universe, and the opening chapter of the Qur'an is described as a compact example of the whole Qur'an.
Cevap 8 The prescribed prayers are a sacred summary and guide to the many forms of worship found across all creation.	Cevap 7 Their scope is very wide, because they include meanings connected to all varieties and levels of worship.	Cevap 6 Just as man reflects the larger world in a small form, the prayers reflect the wider reality of worship in a concentrated form.	Cevap 5 No. They point to forms of worship belonging to all groups of created beings.
Cevap 12 The images of an index and a map.	Cevap 11 They serve as a complete and illuminating summary of worship.	Cevap 10 As a bright summary or sample of the entire Qur'an.	Cevap 9 As a smaller model of the whole universe.

13 What is being gathered by the prayers when they are called an index?	14 What is being pointed out by the prayers when they are called a map?	15 What does the passage suggest about the connection between the five daily prayers and the rest of creation?	16 What three things are compared in this passage?
