11sinif supreme-sign-p16-the-globe-of-the-earth-its-journey-and-the-proofs-of-mercy-on-the-page-of-spring - Set 1 - CEVAPLAR

1-) What invitation does the earth give the traveler at the beginning of the passage?

It calls him away from wandering through the sky and tells him to examine the earth's works and learn from them.

2-) What do the earth's two motions accomplish in the passage? They organize the passing of time through day, year, and season.

3-) Why is the earth described as a great ship?

Because it carries huge amounts of supplies and necessities for living creatures while traveling in space in a balanced way.

4-) What does the traveler learn from even one page of the earth?

He learns that it contains many signs pointing to the One who sustains it.

5-) What does the passage say about the origin of many life-forms in spring?

Their many shapes come out from simple matter with great precision.

6-) How is nourishment described in relation to mercy?

Food is presented as being provided gently, generously, and with compassion.

7-) What contrast is used to show divine power in providing food?

Delicious foods are produced from plain earth and from similar-looking roots, seeds, and drops of fluid.

8-) How does the example of milk for infants deepen the message of the passage?

It gives a close, human example of loving care that people can easily recognize.

9-) What larger belief does the revival of the earth in spring support?

It supports belief that the One who revives dead land can also raise the dead.

10-) What is meant by calling spring a visible proof of resurrection?

Spring lets people watch a kind of small-scale return to life that points to the final rising of the dead.

1-) Why does the earth tell the traveler to look at its functions and pages?

It wants to show him the signs that answer what he has been seeking.

2-) How does the description of the earth's motion combine movement and order?

Although it is constantly turning, it does so in a way that produces stable patterns for life.

3-) Why does the traveler not try to read every page of the earth? Because its signs are too many, so he chooses one page to study closely.

4-) What is significant about the phrase that forms emerge from simple material?

It points to the difference between plain substance and the highly ordered living shapes that come from it.

5-) What can be inferred from seeds being spread in effective ways?

Their movement serves a purpose and is managed with knowledge and planning.

6-) Why does the passage stress the variety of foods?

To show the richness of provision given to creatures with different needs.

7-) Why is a mother's milk presented as a strong proof of compassion?

Because it is specially prepared for a helpless infant at exactly the right time and in the right form.

8-) What conclusion should a thoughtful person draw from that example?

That such fitting and tender provision points to a Merciful Creator.

9-) What does it mean that the earth proclaims faith "according to the size" of its pages?

It means every part of the earth gives witness in a way suited to its own scale and content.

10-) Summarize the traveler's final understanding from this section.

He sees the earth as a many-layered witness that declares Allah's mercy, power, and oneness.

1-) What change of focus happens at the start of this passage?

The traveler turns from the heavens to the earth to continue his search for signs.

2-) What does the image of a turning dervish add to the description of the globe?

It gives a sense of lively, graceful motion while still pointing to a meaningful pattern.

3-) Why is the earth compared to a vessel carrying supplies?

Because it supports and transports everything needed for the lives of many creatures.

4-) What does the traveler discover when reading the earth's "chapters"?

He discovers many signs that testify to the One who governs and sustains the earth.

5-) What season receives special attention, and why?

Spring does, because it displays the return and spread of life in a very clear way.

6-) What role do flying seeds play in the spring scene?

They are a sign of the organized spreading of life to many places.

7-) How does the passage portray the distribution of provision to living beings?

It portrays it as organized, abundant, and sent out from a hidden source.

8-) Why is milk for infants one of the strongest examples in the passage?

Because it shows perfectly matched care for a vulnerable creature at the exact moment of need.

9-) What does the revival of the earth after its dead period demonstrate besides seasonal change?

It demonstrates a sign of divine mercy and a proof of the power to resurrect.

10-) Why is spring called a demonstration rather than just a season?

Because it actively displays truths about mercy, power, and resurrection in a visible way.

1-) What is the earth asking the traveler to do instead of roaming through the sky?

It is asking him to study the earth itself and learn from its signs.

2-) What results from the earth's motion according to the passage?

It brings about the cycle of days, years, and seasons.

3-) Why is "utmost equilibrium" important in the description of the earth?

It emphasizes that the earth moves in a steady, controlled way while holding life.

4-) Which part of the earth's "book" does he focus on especially?

He focuses on the springtime page about the coming forth and spreading of living things.

5-) What is the purpose of mentioning seeds that are enabled to travel?

It shows that spreading life across the earth happens through planned and effective means.

6-) How does the passage describe the care given to living things after they appear?

They are distributed, fed, and raised with great care and mercy.

7-) What does the comparison to a loaded railcar suggest about springtime provision?

It suggests careful delivery, large-scale preparation, and order in supplying living beings.

8-) Why is feeding babies given special attention in the passage?

Because it shows a very tender form of care, wisdom, and mercy through the nourishment prepared for them through their mothers.

9-) How does the cited verse about reviving the earth support the traveler's reflection?

It gives revealed confirmation that bringing life back to dead land is a sign of greater divine power.

10-) What conclusion does the traveler reach from the earth's pages?

He understands that all of them declare the oneness of Allah.

1-) In this passage, what role does the earth take in relation to the traveler?

It acts like a guide that teaches him through its condition and activities.

2-) What does the phrase about food and equipment for living beings suggest about the earth?

It suggests the earth is prepared as a place fully supplied for the needs of creation.

3-) Why is spring an especially strong page to study?

Because it displays life returning in many forms all at once.

4-) How does the emergence of many species from simple material strengthen the argument of the passage?

It shows that complex and distinct life cannot be explained by matter alone but points to wise design.

5-) How are feeding and raising living things described?

They are described as careful, efficient, and full of mercy.

6-) What does the unseen treasury image teach about provision?

It teaches that the source of sustenance is beyond what people can fully see and comes by divine generosity.

7-) How does the example of babies and mothers make the argument more personal?

It brings the sign of mercy into everyday human experience where need and care are very clear.

8-) What link does the passage make between revival in nature and life after death?

The yearly return of life in spring is presented as evidence that resurrection is possible.

9-) Why does the passage connect spring with Allah's power over all things?

Because reviving the earth on such a vast scale shows ability without limit.

10-) What final testimony does the traveler hear from the earth?

He understands that all of its pages witness to the truth that there is no god but Allah.

1-) What question from the earth redirects the traveler's search?

The earth asks why he is roaming through the upper world and invites him to look closer at the earth instead.

2-) What does the earth's balance in space suggest?

It suggests control, stability, and deliberate arrangement rather than randomness.

3-) Why is the earth's journey through space important to the argument?

It shows that even while moving through vast space, it remains steady and fit for carrying life.

4-) What does each page of the earth "say," according to the traveler?

Each one points to the Lordship and sustaining power of Allah.

5-) How does the passage contrast simplicity and complexity?

It shows highly detailed living forms coming from plain and simple materials.

6-) What is remarkable about the food described in the passage?

Many kinds of appealing nourishment come from sources that seem plain and nearly alike.

7-) What does the passage suggest by describing spring provision as being sent from a hidden storehouse?

It suggests that the true giver of provision is a merciful Lord whose resources are beyond what we see.

8-) Why would this example speak strongly to a thoughtful reader?

Because it shows mercy joined with exact wisdom in meeting a need before the child can even ask.

9-) How does the Qur'anic verse about bringing the earth to life relate to resurrection?

It teaches that the One who revives the land can also bring dead people back to life.

10-) What overall confession of faith does the earth lead the traveler to understand?

It leads him to recognize the oneness of Allah through the signs spread across the earth.
