The passage points to spring, when huge numbers of plant and animal species are created, arranged, and sustained together.

2-) How does the passage describe the timing of this work?

It presents it as happening together at once.

3-) Which class of creatures is singled out as an example of diversity and design?

Birds.

4-) What does the movement of food toward body cells show?

It shows wise and caring provision operating inside living beings.

5-) What humanly recognizable pattern of care is used as an example of mercy in creation?

Mothers caring quickly for their helpless babies.

6-) What effect is created by listing things from galaxies down to tiny plant parts?

It demonstrates one order running through all scales of existence.

7-) How does the passage explain Allah's relation to place?

He is not contained in a place, yet His knowledge and power are present everywhere.

8-) How does the same passage guard against imagining Allah as absent from creation?

It says He is present to all things in a way fitting His majesty.

9-) How do the paired examples in the passage help a reader grasp that idea?

They compare small things with great ones to show similar wisdom in both.

10-) Why is that price described as small compared with the blessings?

Because the gifts are many and precious, while the response asked from us is simple gratitude and remembrance.

1-) What season is used as a living proof of divine action throughout the passage?

Spring.

2-) What does the passage say about how these species are handled despite their huge number?

They are managed together in an ordered way with no mistakes.

3-) Why does the passage move from tiny flying creatures to eagles? To show that the full range of bird life is equally under the same creative care.

4-) What is indicated by the mention of a sign of unity in each creature's inner reality?

Each creature points beyond itself to one Maker.

5-) What common idea ties those three examples together?

Provision and mercy are arranged purposefully.

6-) What tiny examples are used to make that claim vivid?

The eye's delicate covering, flower petals, the shell around grain, and melon seeds.

7-) Why are human thoughts mentioned along with blood cells?

To show that both inner life and physical life are fully known and governed by Him.

8-) What examples are given to prove that hidden and tiny things are not beyond Him?

Blood cells and thoughts in the heart.

9-) How do the examples of seed, tree, garden, spring, and resurrection build the argument?

They show a steady expansion in scale while keeping the same ease of creation.

10-) What moral attitude is the passage trying to build through these expressions?

Thankfulness, awareness of Allah, and humility before His gifts.

They are mingled together yet still perfectly ordered.

3-) Besides creating birds, what other two things are done for them?

They are given what they need to fly and what they need to live.

4-) What does the passage imply by describing food particles as hurrying to body cells?

Provision is actively directed to where it is needed.

5-) How is the support chain between plants and animals presented?

Plants are shown as serving animals in an organized way.

6-) What conclusion is drawn from these many signs across creation?

The one doing all these acts is one and without partner.

7-) What does the claim that His mark is on everything say about ownership and authority?

Everything bears signs that it belongs to and is governed by Him.

8-) Why are both cosmic structures and personal inner thoughts mentioned?

To show that public, vast realities and hidden, private realities are equally known to Him.

9-) According to the passage, what is the “price” asked from people for these blessings?

It is to begin with remembrance of Allah and end with praise to Him.

10-) Why is beginning with Allah’s name spiritually fitting according to the passage’s logic?

Because the blessings come from Him, so they should be received with awareness of Him.
